

Distillery Expansion Underway

Triple Eight breaks ground on New Distillery! The morning of February 17th 2006 crews began construction of the new distillery and barrel warehouse. The new structure is situated between the brewery and winery. It will add a third tasting area to the alcohol compound and serve as a marketing facility for all of Triple Eight's spirits.

"A new distillery; more barrels, two new stills and three new retail areas, one for the beer, one for the wine and one for the distillery," said Nantucket Vineyards owner Dean Long. "There's probably enough barrel storage to do maybe...about enough for five years of storage, probably."
